Crew Visits Wrecked Hulk

As Board Probes Death Crash

ON BOARD SHIP WHERE 40 LIVES WERE SNUFFED OUT

James Rice of Los Angeles, Cal., only living member of the S4 crew who was not aboard at the time of the fatal Provincetown crash, visits the hulk of the submarine at Boston Navy Yard and talks to Capt. Wilson.

CHIEF MOURNER AT THE SCENE

James Rice, whom Fate decreed should not die when his 40 mates met death on the S4.

BOARD OF INVESTIGATION STARTS DISASTER INQUIRY

Officers from the Navy, who are conducting the investigation into the S4 disaster, inspected the hulk of the death craft at the Boston Navy Yard. They will report their findings direct to Washington.

S4 CREW OFF THEIR LIFE LINE IN FEAR OF WATER

The 40 members of the crew of the S4 might have lived to be rescued but for a small quantity of water in the salvage air line running to every compartment of the submarine. This astounding fact was revealed today when the naval board of investigation, inspecting the S4 in dry dock at the Navy Yard, tested the salvage air line and found it in perfect working order.

In the line was a small quantity of water, some of which had seeped into the compartments when the trapped men opened the valves. Had they left the valves open—instead of closing them—immediately in the belief that the line had been ruptured in the crash—the small quantity of water would have easily drained off and the diving air would have followed it into the ship.

As the lines were attached to the salvage line intake by divers from the Phoenix immediately following the crash and air was pumped continuously into the line for several days.

The six men in the torpedo compartment opened the valve and immediately closed it, tapping to the divers a message that water entered the compartment and that the line must be broken, as the valve was left open air and liquid food could have been pumped to the men.

It was established today that Lieut. Graham Phipps used a second weapon in tapping the signals against the hull, while he and five other men in the torpedo compartment still lived. Near the spot where his body was found was discovered a piece of brass piping, the battered end of which revealed that it had been used in hammering a knife and which chain worn by Lieut. Donald Walker were found in the engine room in which Walker's body was removed off Provincetown.

The board made a strange find in the hull covering the engine room deck. There they stumbled over the body of a three-foot dog fish, resembling, at first sight, a porpoise. The fish is believed to have entered the S4 when divers opened her hatch.

One farewell message found on the ship had been made public by the board and was printed yesterday, exclusively, in the Boston Evening American. It was from Commander George Palmer's scribbled request for disposition of his body.

James Rice of Los Angeles, the only regular member of the S4 crew who was not aboard on the fatal trip, visited the navy yard today and walked upon the submarine's gun deck. He was too much affected by his emotions to enter the ship. Rice, who is a first class machinist's mate, was moved from death by a severe cold following a case of measles, which prevented him from making the trip.

Rice declared he had no intention of giving up the submarine branch of the service. Removal of an interlocking gear on the starboard lower torpedo tube in the forward section, which prevented the opening of inner and outer doors of the tube at the same time and under ordinary conditions in compliance with its operating instructions, was a punishable breach of discipline.

The S4's gunnery was dismantled. Her torpedoes are believed to be a total loss. No definite decision has yet been reached whether the submarine will be recommissioned, but it is probable that Navy Yard probably will receive the commission for the work. The board's probe has disclosed that probably every member of the crew of 40 lived for a time on the second floor following the crash.

"Bossy" Has Learned Ashley's Secret of 23 Terms

New Bedford, March 21 (AP)—Mayor "Bossy" Gillis of New Bedford today learned the secret of his 23 terms in long, "How do you ever keep the gang together that long," Gillis asked.

The Newburyport mayor left asking that reverend Ashley elevator came because "Charley was such a good fellow."

A damage award almost double that assigned by the city of Boston was granted by a Superior Court jury today to John P. Cronan, an attorney, from whom the city took 808 square feet of land in connection with the improvement of Dock and Faneuil Hall ways.

By the city, Cronan was awarded $80,000. The jury today, following trial of the case over several days, returned a verdict of $160,000. During the trial of the case, the insurance Co. representatives testified that the company, on date of taking of the land in December, 1921, held a mortgage on which $100,000 was due.

According to the children, who had wandered in the vicinity of the Boston & Albany tracks while at play in the rear of their home, the man dodged into the undergrowth when he saw them. No trace of the fugitive had been obtained at a late hour.

Snyder's auto sold for support of daughter. New York, March 21 (AP)—On the first anniversary of the slaying of Albert Snyder in his Queens Village, L. I., home, his auto was sold for $100 for the support of his daughter Lorraine, aged ten.

The car had been in the garage since that time and was sold under terms of the will of Mrs. Snyder, who with Henry Jack Gray, Jr., the electrician, was charged with Sing Prison for her husband's murder.

CROWAN WINS $169,020 FOR HUSBAND

With the presentation to the Legislature today, the bill for public ownership of the Boston Elevated was expected to bring on the highest battle of this session on Beacon Hill.

Meanwhile, foes of the bill—including both the public control committees by a vote of 14 to 14, the bill was one of the first items on the House docket for the day. The first reading was to be followed by its passage into the House ways and means committee.

When told of the committee's bill, the governor said: "I don't expect an actual report until about the first of August. I figure that a warm July will bring the members of the Legislature into an attitude of mind a little more in line with the governor's suggestions as outlined in his annual address."

"I am in favor of a short rather than a long, extension of public control."

The advocates of return of the road to private management, realizing that it was hopeless to get favorable action on their own plan, helped to get a report out of the committee.

Little Mouse Makes Woman Ex-Governor Leap to Table. Charlotte, N. C., March 21 (AP)—A woman may keep a dignified maternal rein on a rugged western state and never show a sliver of fear—but when a mouse happens along that's a different matter.

Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross of Wyoming, one of America's first women governors, was speaking to a large audience here last night when a tiny mouse ambled down the aisle.

"If I appear a bit disconcerted," she explained to the audience, "it's because a woman may be a governor, but she's always afraid of a mouse. If it comes up here I am going to jump on the table."

It was found that the tiny mouse took the stage that was exactly what she did.

FATHER OF 3 IN GUILTY PLEA; ASKS MERCY

A plea of guilty to larceny of $3250 was made today by Harold R. Plasted of Clewley rd., West Medford, whose chief trouble, according to the police, was "keeping up with the Joneses."

Plasted, who is 27 and has a wife and three children, threw himself on the mercy of the court. Chief Justice Bolster of the municipal court postponed action until Friday, pending complete investigation by probation authorities.

The court made a special effort to learn what Plasted did with the money and was informed he took about $50 every week from his employers over a period of four years and spent this amount chiefly on bettering the general standard of living of his family.

The firm of Stuart, Halsey & Co., by which he was employed as a cashier, stated through a representative it was leaving matters to the bonding company, and the latter informed the court it would accept whatever judgment Judge Bolster rendered.

"This defendant spent the money keeping up with his neighbors," said Inspector Frank Haggerty. "His method of stealing was to keep for himself amounts paid in cash by customers. He kept pocket newspapers and there was able to make the books look right when necessary."

Los Angeles, March 25.—Hollywood is elated at the mere thought that conservative England has considered tendering a knighthood to one of its own members.

No other motion pictures actor in the world has even been so much as mentioned as deserving a title. That England should suddenly decide that the diminutive comedian, Charlie Chaplin, the man who has made the trickiest, laziest, funniest and dearest hat famous, might be a recipient of such an honor has caused a terrific flurry.

All the gossip over tea tables had entered around Sir Charles Chaplin. Think of one of Hollywood's own stars being a member of the nobility. No other man in motion pictures except Sir William Jury has ever had a title conferred upon him. Sir William Jury achieved this distinction during the war when he masterfully added the cause of the Allies with his film propaganda.

Even England's polite and careful denial that Chaplin had been awarded a knighthood has not made very much impression in Hollywood. Certainly, England could not appropriately speak of the possibility of Please Turn to Page 7, Column 2.

MISS BRENNER NOT KNOWN BY FAY'S WIDOW

"I don't know that woman," Mrs. Amy Christina Fay, widow of Franklin L. Fay, declared today in reference to Mary E. Brenner of South Boston, who was left the bulk of her husband's estate.

Under the terms of his will, Fay, a retired business man, who lived in the Back Bay, left $55,000 to Miss Brenner and only $10,000 to the wife from whom he had been estranged for some time.

"I don't really know what I will do about the will," said Mrs. Fay, although her lawyer has already announced that she will enter a contest.

The widow was found by the Boston Evening American employed in a candy store on Congress st., the same sort of work in which she was engaged when her marriage to young Fay in 1909 electrified Back Bay society.

An attractive, pleasant woman, with brown, bobbed hair, who does not look her 42 years, Mrs. Fay expressed reluctance in discussing her affairs.

"I was very much surprised to learn of the manner in which my husband disposed of his estate," she said. "I never saw this woman."

"He died a young man, being about the same age as myself," questioned concerning cross actions for divorce filed by Fay and herself in 1925, Mrs. Fay expressed surprise that the matters should still be at the courthouse.

"Nothing was ever done about those suits," she said. "As a matter of fact my husband and I lived together after that. We were together up to a short time ago."

FILE SUIT OVER BIGGEST BAY STATE STILL

Files of a suit by the government today, seeking forfeiture of distilling apparatus, revealed what prohibition enforcement officials assert to be their largest seizure ever made in Massachusetts.

According to the suit filed by Prohibition Enforcement Agents Johnson, Cole and Tipp, the apparatus, consisting of three 125-gallon stills, three steam boilers, an entire electricity-making plant, 750 drums of denatured alcohol, 720 empty one-gallon cans and seven 500-gallon tanks, was seized last January 23 on the reservation of the Elys Brevling and Ginning Association at Middleboro.

Despite the large seizure reported, the prohibition officials place a value of only $20,000 on the assembly, although much higher valuations have been placed on previous seizures.

The raid, according to the suit, which was filed with the United States attorney, was made by prohibition officials and Coast Guard, but because of inability to establish liability on the part of any individual or individuals no charges have been brought against anyone and no arrests have been made.

In their suit the prohibition men named Percy H. Jones as president of the Elys Brevling and Ginning Association, Maurice A. Jones, as treasurer, and Ernest H. Jones, as clerk.

U. S. REJECTS SOVIET PLAN TO DISARM

Geneva, March 21 (AP)—The United States does not adhere at this time to such radical measures as the Soviet project for complete disarmament, Hugh S. Gibson, head of the American delegation, said today.

Mr. Gibson took the floor at the opening of the preparatory commission on disarmament to remove any doubt as to the American attitude. He said he wanted to reply briefly to the reference to Washington's pact to prohibit war.

"The United States," he continued, "is engaged sincerely in an effort to obtain a general agreement, and I think that to be one of the best ways of preparing for disarmament, but the American government does not at this time adhere to such radical measures as the Soviet proposal."

Mr. Gibson said the American delegation does not feel justified in supporting a proposal to delay work on the projects already outlined in order to consider the radical measure before the committee.

Delegates of Holland and Sweden spoke after Mr. Gibson, rejecting the Soviet Union's demand for a general proposal in behalf of their respective governments.

The action of the Americans, British and French delegates, following the British attack upon the Soviet disarmament program, effectively shelved the Moscow proposals. Turkey has been supporting the Soviet position and is clearly receiving half-hearted support from Germany.

Chairman Gibson's announcement that the United States would not support the Soviet appeal for a general disarmament conference was a surprise. Following the Soviet appeal, the United States delegation to support the Soviet appeal was announced. The Soviet appeal was a general disarmament by land, sea and air within four years, the general disarmament was maintained here that the United States would disregard the plea.

There is no reason to continue the Soviet appeal for a general disarmament conference. The Soviet proposals for universal disarmament—proposals which the United States rejects," said Mr. Gibson. "The Soviet Union is preventing fighting. The only method of preventing war is through the mutual disarmament treaty to outlaw future wars."

This was the first time a direct appeal had been made to the League of Nations to support Secretary of State's appeal for a general disarmament conference. The proposals had been discussed privately, however, at the League of Nations.

Unit in the country, and shows the up-to-the-moment trend of mind among these fair young society women. With much originality and fine attention to detail they have sent to "exhibit" ranging, and dignified country estates to glorified wayside stands, the sort that should, but do not, decorate our highways. New England is especially singled out for honor, since it is an historic mainland in Deerfield, oldest in the town, put perfectly into miniature, that carried off an award.

THE EXHIBIT IN NEW YORK GOES ON UNTIL APRIL 1, AND has a competent Junior League committee to manage it. Mr. Henry Prescott of Cleveland is at its head. The exhibit sent in by the Waterbury unit of the League reproduces the colonial mansion down to the last brick in the enormous chimneys, and even copies the broken arch doorway. The grounds also are carried out with remarkable precision. Since the exhibits must be representative of their sections, nothing of New England production could be truer to spirit than something from Old Deerfield.

NEW FACULTY RULING BLOW TO TUFTS SPORTS

Tufts College athletic teams in the future will be unable to draw upon the intern Dental and Medical Schools for any of their material, according to an announcement just made by the college trustees.

The trustees of Tufts College have just announced that the college will no longer permit its athletic teams to draw upon the intern Dental and Medical Schools for any of their material. This ruling is a blow to the college's sports program, as the teams have previously been able to draw upon these schools for a large part of their equipment.

Bike Racers Guilty of 'Bagging' Race

Berlin, March 21 (AP).—Berlin's 20th six-day bicycle race which ended March 15 has had a sensational sequel in the revelation that the three leading teams were found guilty by the League of German Bicycle Riders of "selling out" to a betting ring less than six hours before the race ended.

An outgrowth of an investigation held by the league, P. van Kempen, the Dutch veteran who has frequently competed in the United States, was deprived of his license for a period of three months and also was barred from all German races for one year.

BARBERIAN TO BATTLE CECCHI

Scranton's Rugged Italian Is Substituted for Flowers in Argonne A. A. Feature

After withstanding a siege of more than 12 hours' duration, when a Big Bertha hit the Argonne and nearly shattered to shreds the first card at Mechanics Building tomorrow night, Top-Serge, Eddie Mack, recalling the dreary days of struggling in the Argonne force, brought up the line of support, got the trench phones ready and when the replacements were brought up the sergeant selected the best looking of the recruits.

When the smoke of battle had cleared away, Mack had picked the best looking recruit, Eddie Mack, a rugged Italian, who had been in the Argonne force for 12 hours, and who had been in the Argonne force for 12 hours, and who had been in the Argonne force for 12 hours.

REAL TOUGH BATTLER

Sid Barberian, the Detroit lightweight, doesn't care who he fights just so long as the other fellow will stand up and sock with him. When Bruce Flowers was unable to go through with his bout with Barberian scheduled tomorrow night at Mechanics Building, the latter informed Matchmaker Mack of the Argonne A. A. that he would fight anybody. So Johnny Cecchi, the Scranton Bearcat, was booked. Sid and Johnny put on a rather savage fight here last September and Barberian won the decision. This second fight tomorrow night should sizzle with action.

B. C. First Nine Is Practically Picked

Although it is just two weeks before Boston College's baseball team heads off on its annual Southern trip, the lineup of the Eagle nine for the coming season is practically settled. Work at the Commonwealth Armory for the next two weeks will consist of polishing up the first nine and selecting the substitutes who will be kept on the squad.

The Eagle infield has the four old standbys, Al Weston, first base; Earl Clinton, second base; Fred Monahan, shortstop; and Hank O'Day, third base. The garden will be manned by Joe Fitzgerald in left, Herb Stokumer at center and Smokey Kellher at right.

Buddy Myer on Third as Rogell Is Benched

By JOE CASHMAN
Bradenton, Fla., March 21.—The long expected shift in the Red Sox regular lineup has taken place.

"Buddy" Myer has supplanted Bill Rogell as first string third sacker and Douglas Taft has been put into right field in place of Denny Williams.

The change, made yesterday, produced immediate results as the team stepped out after losing three games in a row at the Cardinals, to whom it lost, 7 to 1, two weeks ago, by the score of 14 to 2.

Consequently, it is probable that the change will be a success.
